ABSTRACT

A water purifying unit having a unique construction which enables it to be easily manufactured, assembled and serviced. The construction of the unit is such that it can with stand increased water pressure levels and is thus less prone to damage from water hammer.